Bedwetting Alarms Are Effective

Bedwetting alarms are a mainstay for the treatment of bedwetting. They are an easy first step that provide a long lasting effect. Much different than setting an alarm clock to wake your child, bedwetting alarms sound in response to urination, which varies in time from night to night.

When to start treatment
Consult with your physician or nurse practitioner to decide when to start treatment. Research shows that alarm therapy is most effective if both child and family are motivated to achieve dryness. Most pediatricians recommend that your child be at least 6 years of age.

About 15% of children who wet will stop each year without any help... but 85% won’t!

www.bedwettingstore.com
Bedwetting occurs

FACT
Bedwetting occurs more than we would expect. Over 15% of children age 6 wet their bed and 5% of children age 10. By the age of 18, 1.5% are still bed wetters.

Alarm Tips

Most alarms have a small, wearable plastic alarm box that attaches to the shoulder, and a moisture sensor that attaches to snug-fitting underwear. Alarms are battery operated so there is no risk of shock. By reminding their child of what to do when the alarm sounds (walk to the bathroom to urinate), the parent helps establish a new response. Over time, the child learns to do this independently and sleeps dry all night.

Usability. Will your child wear the alarm? Look at some of the bright-colored kid-cool designs to encourage children to wear them.

Comfort. Is the alarm lightweight and comfortable to wear? Most children, especially younger ones, are more comfortable using alarms with small sensors.

Audibility. Will the alarm wake your children, especially younger ones, who are still deep-sleeping? Bedwetting alarms are not intended to wake children to bed. When wetting occurs, the sensor detects the urine and transmits a signal to a small receiver that emits a loud chirping noise to alert parents and child. The Urosensor can be used with a mini-pad, pull-up or sandwiched between two pairs of underwear. By placing the alarm receiver on a table or night stand, the child must get out of bed to switch it off. Urosensor contains sealed battery that lasts 2-3 years.

DRI Eclipse Wireless Alarm System

Another wireless alternative

The DRI Eclipse Wireless Alarm System is an easy-to-use bedwetting alarm. A small battery-operated Urosensor (urine detector) is worn by the child to bed. When wetting occurs, the sensor detects the urine and transmits a signal to a small receiver that emits a loud chirping noise to alert parents and child. The Urosensor can be used with a mini-pad, pull-up or sandwiched between two pairs of underwear. By placing the alarm receiver on a table or night stand, the child must get out of bed to switch it off. Urosensor contains sealed battery that lasts 2-3 years.

Parent Tip:
This is the best waterproof cover on the market! Just what we have been looking for – a waterproof cover that is quiet, breathable, and absorbent yet so durable and lightweight you can easily wash and dry it hundreds of times. While vinyl tends to reflect body heat and create a warm sleep environment, this premium cover does not. In testing, we found another big advantage over other waterproof mattress pads was its compact size. Bulkier waterproof mattress pads took about twice the drying time – a big advantage to parents who regularly wash pads with wet beds.

Waterproof Mattress Pads
Put a soft, waterproof barrier between your child and mattress
Choose from 3 styles of waterproof mattress pads. Each style is super absorbent, has a comfortable top, a middle waterproof barrier to repel liquid and a full-elasticized skirt. Protects against bacteria, which can degrade fabric and lead to odors and stains. Your child’s bed stays fresh and clean. Fully waterproof, you never have to worry about spills and stains seeping through to the mattress. Machine washable. Protect your mattress from overnight accidents.

Best – the plush Simmons Beautyrest Cotton Top 4 layer pad – fits mattresses up to 20” deep. 1-year warranty. Breathable, the finest pad to protect your mattress.
Better – our 4 layer Sateen Cotton Top waterproof pads – fits mattresses up to 15” deep. 5-year warranty. Has a surface you’ll find only on premium mattress pads.
Good – our best selling Standard 3 layer pad – fits mattresses up to 15” deep. 5-year warranty. No better quality pad at this price!

The key difference between these three styles is the top layer and the waterproof barrier. Both the Cotton Top and Beautyrest Cotton Top have a fine cotton surface that feels and looks as good as any premium mattress pad on the market, yet add the safety of a waterproof barrier to protect an expensive mattress. The Best pad has a breathable polyurethane barrier layer while the Better and Good contain a vinyl layer. Also check out our new Premium products that are breathable and completely noiseless, on pg 11.

Waterproof Overlays

Wash the overlay, not the sheets!
Conveniently keep bedding and mattress dry, fresh when your child wets, with these quality waterproof mattress protectors. Just lay the washable cloth pad across the bed, over the bottom sheet. The absorbent overlay allows your child to easily change pads and sleep comfortably until morning. Just wash the pad instead of the bedding to minimize your laundry chores.

Choose from our popular regular 33x35” or large 34x52” sizes. Each size is also available with generous 18” tuck-in tails (fits twin and full size) to hold it in position. Waterproof poly knit vinyl backing and a soft, quilted top withstands hundreds of washes. Buy several so your child can replace the wet pad with a dry one.

Vinyl Mattress Covers

Protect and extend the life of your mattresses
Protective vinyl mattress and pillow covers are waterproof, soft and durable. Zippered covers surround entire mattress or pillow to protect from spills, stains, bedwetting and allergies. Retard mildew and mold with an antibacterial treatment. Locks out dust mites, too. Easily wipe clean with a damp cloth. Electronically welded seams. Standard 3-gauge covers are a great value and meet everyday needs. For heavy-duty institutional quality covers, choose 6-gauge vinyl. Fits mattresses and box springs up to 9” or 16” deep. Pillow cases come two to a pack.

Tip: While a waterproof mattress pad is essential to protect the mattress, consider purchasing a waterproof mattress overlay your child can sleep on to absorb small to medium accidents – wash the mattress overlay rather than the entire pad and reduce your laundry burden.

To completely enclose your mattress, consider purchasing the zipper vinyl mattress cover for additional protection.
